Nothing was done about Montenegro in view of the political situation created by the refusal of King Nichopeople to unite with Jugo Slavia.

The question of representation settled, the council began the discussion of procedure. A proposal by President Wilson concerning the sending of problems to technical committees for examination was adopted.

At the meeting on Wednesday the council will fix upon the methods of work and the guiding principles of the conference.

President Poincare will open the plenary session of the Peace Congress on Saturday with an address, after which officers will be elected.

The first quest on to come up before the actual Peace Conference will be that of the proposed League of Naliens, and it was made known to-day that it had been planned for the conferees to devote twelve hours daily to this work if necessary until it is on the way to completion. There is some reason for believing that the first plans for the structure of a League of Nations to be said before the conference probably will be somewhat composite, representative of a consumus of epinion on the part of the American, British and French statesmen who have been discussing the subject. It will not purport to be a finished product, but is for development.

> PARIS, Jan. 14. START has been made on the machinery through which the American Republic will learn of the doings of the Peace Conference. Hitherto the French and the British press had access to much more information than the press representatives from the United States. The British and French had also been issuing their own official communiques regarding the meetings. It has now been decided to issue a joint communique, prepared by a committee representing all the nations, this to be the sole official

President Wilson has also decided to communicate with the representatives of the American newspapers, of which there are more than 100 in Paris, through the medium of a publicity agent. Ray Stannard Baker, a former magazine writer, has been selected as the agent.

The plan, as announced to-day, is for President Wilson or some member of the American Mission to communicate to Mr. Baker such details of the proceedings as were not embraced in the communiques and which the President desires to make public, Mr. Baker conveying the information to the correspondents. The correspondents will not have original contact with the source of information.

The Figure says that when the question of the publicity of treaties and accret diplomacy was discussed President Wilson, while supporting the majority in favor of secrecy, expressed the opinion that treaties should be public, although the negotiations leading up to them called for the exercise of a certain discretion.
